His family moved several times during his youth, first to Indiana and later to Illinois, seeking better opportunities.

Family Background and Childhood

Lincoln was the second child of Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks Lincoln. His mother died when he was just nine years old, and his father remarried. The family's life was characterized by manual labor and subsistence farming. The hardships of frontier life shaped Lincoln's character, fostering resilience, humility, and a strong work ethic.

Self-Education and Early Interests

Early Political Positions

Lincoln served four terms in the Illinois General Assembly between 1834 and 1842. ## Debates and National Recognition
